DUE TO INORDINATE VANITY.

Injury of Kaiser's Eye Explained by a German Diplomat.

The recent injury to the Kaiser's eye was the result of a characteristic exhibition of personal vanity on his part. He was informed that it would be unsafe, if not impossible, to lower the heavy steel pole masts of the Hohenzollern, his gigantic yacht, unless she were in dock and under a derick. He exclaimed that if nothing was impossible to him, and said if the naval engineers aboard were unable to devise means of lowering the masts while the ship was afloat he would teach them how.

Accordingly, he drew up a scheme for unshipping the masts by means of hawsers attached to the bow and to the other masts. It was while this hawser was being rigged up under his personal direction that a rope snapped and the end struck him in the face. His eye was seriously injured. The Kaiser bore the intense pain without flinching while in sight of his crew, but when he withdrew to his cabin he threw himself on the bed and writhed in agony. When the surgical aid he obtained some relief, he returned to the deck with his eye bound up, and, in spite of the urgings of his officers, he had the pole mast lowered, doing considerable damage to the yacht's deck and rigging by the operation. Having given this demonstration of his "divine" power, he had the crew summoned and prayer was offered up. The episode was due to one of those attacks of mania to which he is subject in mid-summer.

The private letter from a diplomatic source in Berlin giving this authentic account of the incident says that the eye is very gravely hurt and that it is quite possible the Kaiser's sight may be permanently affected.—Chicago Chronicle.

How Ostriches Run.

Considerable misconception prevails as to the manner in which the ostrich runs. It seems to be still generally held that when running it spreads out its wings, and, aided by them, skims lightly over the ground. This is not correct. When a bird really settles itself to run, it holds its head lower than usual and a little forward, with a deep loop in the neck. The neck vibrates sinuously, but the head remains steady, thus enabling the bird, even at top speed, to look around with unshaken glance in any direction. The wings lie along the sides about on a level with or a little higher than the back, and are held loosely, just free of the plunging "thigh." There is no attempt to hold them extended or derive any assistance from them as organs of flight. When an ostrich, after a hard run, is very tired, its wings sometimes droop; this is due to exhaustion. They are never, by a running bird exerting itself to the utmost, held out away from the sides to lighten its weight or to increase its pace. But the wings appear to be of great service in turning, enabling the bird to double abruptly, even when going at top speed.—Zoologist.

Breeding Ground Hogs for Food.

Henry Singer, a well-known and thrifty farmer of Duval Station, Scott county, Ky., has for the last two years been domesticating the ground hog with much success. Mr. Singer found a burrow in which he captured 17 ground hogs, and, taking them into a small lot on his place, he built a close wire fence through which none could escape. Last year the hogs increased to 205, and this year there were 1,075. Of this number Mr. Singer killed 1,000, which he salted away and will smoke dry, as Kentucky farmers do with ordinary pork. The ground hog when so cured is a great delicacy, and Mr. Singer has more than enough to furnish his meat for the coming year.—Chicago Chronicle.

Eel Blood for Snakes.

Some years ago the naturalist Mosse found that the blood of eels, particularly that of the sea eels, contained a poison which acted, when transferred into the human system, similar to the venom of vipers, although weaker, inasmuch as the eel poison brought about a similar reduction of the temperature of the blood as the snake poison. Based upon this fact, Prof. C. Plussalik made very interesting researches, which he presented recently to the Academy of Sciences at Paris. He concluded that the blood of eels possessed immunifying agencies upon snake poison. He succeeded by heating a solution of eel poison to 58 degrees Centigrade to destroy its virulence, so that it was possible to inoculate a Guinea pig with the fluid, the only effect being the raising of the temperature by a few degrees. This reaction of the organism was followed by a perfect capability to resist the poison of the vipers, which was administered in a deadly dose 15 to 20 hours after the inoculation with eel blood, but it absolutely failed to kill the animal. Even a very small quantity of the heated eel serum was sufficient to produce immunity from snake poison. This discovery is most important, since it can be employed for immunizing human beings against snake bites, and, if not too far progressed, it will even insure a more rapid recovery from snake bite of victims who had not previously been immunized with the serum.—Philadelphia Record.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., 64 NIAGARA ST., BUFFALO, N. Y.

The mystery of womanhood is full of deep unanswerable enigmas. Why should women be compelled to suffer simply because they are women? Way is it that the source of their highest joys is at the same time the cause of their greatest wretchedness? The very attributes which make it possible for women to be happy wives and mothers also render them liable to the most physical misery and pain.

The sufferings of body and mind caused by some weakness of the distinctly feminine organs are so almost universal among women that the question might well be asked, "Is this Nature's punishment for the crime of being a woman?" The true answer is No! These sufferings are neither natural nor necessary. They would not exist if the organism was healthy. No woman ought to endure such troubles. There is no need of it. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a perfect and positive cure for feminine weakness and disease.

It gives health and strength to the special organs and nerve-centres, heals inflammation, stops weakening drains, promotes functional regularity, and restores the normal, vigorous and painless condition which Nature intended.

It is the only medicine of its kind invented by an educated and experienced physician. It is the only medicine which makes baby's coming safe and comparatively painless.

Any woman who would like to know more about this medicine and about her own physical make-up should send 21 one-cent stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., to pay the cost of mailing only on an absolutely free copy of his thousand-page illustrated book, "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," or 31 stamps for cloth covered.

HOW IT IS DONE.

In Tuesday's Silver State was published an article showing that the exercise of option by the Bank of France in paying its obligations in gold or silver had not been attended with any of the disastrous consequences, held up as scarecrows, against the adoption of the same policy by the government of the United States. The methods adopted by the French government and financiers might be promptly followed in this country, or at least a valuable lesson learned by the calamity howlers, who denounce the legal exercise of its option by one government, as repudiation of its honest debts.

The French nation has seven hundred millions of silver coin. The parity of gold and silver is not maintained there by boycotting the silver, as our treasury department does, but by the refusal of the Bank of France to redeem its note circulation in gold when it prefers to pay in silver. No run is attempted on the gold in the bank because it would be met by silver redemption.

Four silver five franc pieces, weighing less than four American dollars, may be exchanged at any time in France for a twenty franc gold piece. But then the Bank of France not only receives silver, but uses it for the redemption of its notes. The bank is not obliged to exact a high premium for the delivery of gold while it retains the option to redeem notes in silver. That is to say, the Bank of France would demand a premium on gold if it redeemed only in gold; but it is under no such necessity, because it redeems in silver coins whenever it is more convenient. In short, the only people in France who pay a premium on gold are those who desire to make a profit on that metal, while in our country the treasury pays the premium, in order to enable the gold brokers to make a profit on it.

Under our laws, the government has the same option to redeem its notes in silver coin that is enjoyed by the Bank of France. The only difference is that in France this option is exercised by its rightful owner, the Bank of France; while in the United States the option of the treasury department is dishonestly given away to the holder of the note. The Bank of France buys no gold with which to redeem its notes, but redeems them in silver to any extent it deems necessary. If our treasury department had been honestly conducted the same state of things would exist here. No bonds would ever have been sold to obtain gold for redemption purposes, because our treasury notes would have been redeemed in silver, as the law provides, when no gold was on hand from the revenues. It is simply the way the option is exercised which makes the difference. The Bank of France exercises it for its own protection, while our treasury department exercises it for the benefit of Wall Street gold brokers and foreign bondholders.—Silver State

MORE GOLDBUG INTOLERANCE.

Professor Ross of the Stanford University, has been dismissed from the chair of economics because of his pronounced views on the silver question. Dr. Ross, in the Presidential campaign of 1896, expressed himself freely and forcibly in favor of free coinage. He contended there could be no permanent prosperity in the United States until the mints are open to silver and gold on equal terms. His arguments were clear, logical and unanswerable, at least the gold press and speakers could not refute them. That a professor in a University endowed by millionaires should teach the heresy of bimetalism was not to be tolerated and Dr. Ross was notified that he would have to vacate the chair of economics, at least he says so in a letter to a friend in Chicago. This is the third dismissal of eminent men from professorships in Universities because of their views on the silver question. The gold men unable to combat the views content themselves with depriving them of the positions which they occupied in educational institutions. The wealth of the country is arrayed on the gold side and the mushroom millionaires exercise their power as despotically as the Czar of Russia or the Emperor of China.

Professor Jordan of Stanford says that Professor Ross was not dismissed but simply transferred to the Department of Social Science. This will have the same effect, however, as if he had been dismissed, as he will have no opportunity to explain to the students the necessity of bimetalism in a debtor country like the United States and the fallacies of the single standard advocates.

At present the gold men have control of the General Government and of nearly all the educational institutes in the country and that they are mercilessly exercising their authority the dismissal of college professor proves beyond doubt or dispute.

The statement is made on high authority that Thomas E. Watson will sell his newspaper and withdraw from politics. It is understood that his reason for this course is his belief that the Populists of the West will coalesce with the free silver Democrats, thus draining Populist ranks of their chief support. He does not believe that the cause has sufficient strength in the South to withstand the shock,

ONE ON HIM.

An Order That He Had Neglected to Obey.

"I had a queer experience with a gripman on a Mount Auburn cable car this morning," said a Fifth street cigar dealer to a Cincinnati Tribune man.

"You know there is a sign in the car which reads: 'Don't put your feet on the seats,' or something to that effect. Probably they were afraid that you would scratch your shoes on the rough seats. Anyhow, the sign's there."

"On the car there was but one other passenger, evidently a friend of the gripman. He was sitting in the seat next to the official, and the two enjoyed a long and animated discussion concerning the system of transfers soon to go into operation over the new extension of the Oak street line. In a careless way I had placed my foot upon the seat, or rather my toe was against the edge, but in no danger of harming the woodwork. The gripman reached over and in an authoritative tone said:

"'You must take care of the seats. See the sign? Them's our orders from headquarters, and we must obey them.'"

"'Is that so?' said I. 'Do you obey all the orders that are given out?'"

"'Sure,' said he.

"'What's that order up there?' said I.

"'Which?' said he.

"'That one that says: 'Don't talk to the gripman.' You have been talking to your friend for 15 minutes and never once told him to stop talking to you.'"

"He looked dazed for half a minute, and then said:

"'That's one on me, partner. Let's saw wood, and say nothin'.'"

"Then I rested my feet in peace."

LUBRICATING A WATCH.

No Other Piece of Machinery Will Run So Long After a Single Oiling.

Very few of the millions of people who carry watches realize to what a powerful extent lubrication is developed, and what an extraordinary number of turns the balance wheel makes with one oiling, says the Philadelphia Record. A Chestnut street watchmaker, whose knowledge of these wonderful pieces of mechanism is not exceeded by any man in this city, has made up an interesting table of comparison to show the perfection of lubrication in a watch.

A watch will run on one oiling from a year to a year and a half. Every minute the balance wheel turns on its axis 450 times, and 27,000 times in an hour. Accepting the year as the time the ordinary watch will run with one oiling, he finds that if the driver of a locomotive was as well oiled as a balance wheel of a watch, it ought to run 60 miles an hour day and night for 648 days, or well on to two years, with one oiling. In that time it would traverse a distance equal to nearly four times the circumference of the earth.

In view of the fact that in reality few locomotives will run one day without re-oiling, he maintains that the watchmaker has developed his art to a far greater degree than the locomotive builder has yet been able to reach.

HUGE KITES TO AID SCIENTISTS.

A Princeton University Party to Explore the Famous Moons Cliffs.

Prof. William Libby, of Princeton university, accompanied by several scientists of repute, has begun an exploration of the famous Moons cliffs in the United States Indian reservation of New Mexico. It is expected that the task will require many weeks for its completion.

Prof. Libby, who is a geologist and an Arctic explorer, conceived the idea of attempting to investigate this district years ago, but no means offered itself until William J. Eddy, of New York, perfected his kite machines for aerial transportation. Mr. Eddy has built a contrivance formed of four huge kites arranged in a square, four feet apart. These kites can be sent up in the air to a height of 800 feet. The apparatus was sent by express to the scene of action and an expert in their use sent by Mr. Eddy to fly them, under Prof. Libby's directions.

RHEUMATISM

Is caused by Uric Acid and other impurities lingering in the blood, which have not been filtered out by the Kidneys through the urine. The seat of the trouble is not in the skin or muscles. It's sick Kidneys. Electricity, liniments or plasters will not reach the case. But the disease can be

CURED

A few days ago I took up one of your little books on kidney diseases, and noticed Dr. Hobbs' Sparagus Kidney Pills not only cures kidney troubles, but neuralgia and rheumatism also. As I had experienced many hours of misery from acute and inflammatory rheumatism, I concluded to try your Sparagus Kidney Pills. I must say they have wrought wonders in my case, as they have driven the rheumatism all out of me. I am now in the best of health and happy state of mind, bodily and mentally.

FOLDING FURNITURE.

Furnishings of a Bedroom That May Be Packed in a Box.

The old saying about living in a band-box may come to be a reality before another decade, for now the complete furnishings of a sleeping or sitting room may be packed in a box six feet long by two and one-half wide and a little more than two feet in depth. A clever Englishman is the creator of this folding furniture. With it persons traveling will not be obliged to lament the absence of their own beds and bedding, but may carry such things with them as personal baggage.

One of these boxes contains a washstand with tiled back and shelves underneath, a dressing bureau with a swinging mirror, a cane-seated chair and one rug upholstered chair, together with bed, bedding, draperies, a toilet set, and a wardrobe of comfortable size. This furniture is made of well-seasoned hard wood. Each part fits into its place and fastens without the aid of nails or screws. In the dressing bureau drawers, for example, the bottom is drawn out and the sides fold together. What a boon this furniture will be for frequent movers who are never satisfied with one place for any length of time, while the camper out may carry his home with him.

No Worse Than Nice.

The attacks upon the morality of Monte Carlo are made by its rivals for popular favor, if we may believe Henry Labouchere. The English radical says: "Every year the number of visitors to Monte Carlo increases and every year more desperate efforts are made by its rivals along the Riviera to prejudice the place with the British public. That Monte Carlo is a paradise in a moral sense I am not going to suggest. Every man of the world knows that, like other places entirely devoted to luxury and pleasure, society there is not exactly an assembly of saints. But that Monte Carlo is any worse than other pleasure resorts of a similar character I emphatically deny. As to the results of the gambling everyone who has been behind the scenes knows that infinitely more mischief is done in the gambling halls of Nice every season than at the tables of Monte Carlo, and I doubt whether even Nice, which is in many respects a sink of iniquity, is any worse than Ostend has been during the last few seasons."

—Gave Himself Away.—"George, do you know that you came home at three o'clock this morning and acted dreadfully silly?" "What did I say?" "Well, for one thing, you called me a wingless angel." "Did I say that?" "Yes." "I own up, my dear. I was drunk."

GRANT'S LOG CABIN DECAYING.

Structure Removed from St. Louis to Philadelphia Needs Care.

The old log cabin once owned and occupied by Gen. Grant, which he had brought to Philadelphia from St. Louis 20 years ago and which is now in Fairmount park, is fast decaying. Many of the logs have been rotted by the elements and others have been carried away by relic hunters.

Gen. Grant presented the cabin, with the original furniture in it, to his friend, the late George H. Stuart. It is still the property of the Stuart estate, and neither the city nor the park commissioners can do anything with it.

George H. Stuart, Jr., applied four years ago for permission to remove it from the park, and permission was granted, provided the grounds would be restored to their original condition. Nothing has been done in the matter since. It is possible that the grand army men will take some action toward preserving the cabin.

A Queer Accident.

A curious instance of hairbreadth escapes was recorded with the explosion of a steamship in Monmouthshire dry docks. Two men who were standing on the quay at the time of the shock were lifted bodily off their feet, carried back some distance and hurled to the bottom of the adjacent graving dock, where they found themselves standing side by side uninjured.

Building Their Own Vessels.

Though it costs from 25 to 50 per cent. more to build merchant vessels in France than in England, according to Vicomte d'Avenel, France will build her own ships.

Work for London Milliners.

It is stated in a fashionable journal that 1,000,000 bonnets were sold in London during one week recently.

Galusha Grow's Eyesight.

Ex-Speaker of the House and Representative Galusha A. Grow of Pennsylvania, is 73 years old, but he writes without glasses as readily as a boy of 18. The other day he was writing in the secretary's office of the house some autograph passes to the reserved gallery and some one complimented him on his good sight. "It is because I began to wear glasses as soon as I needed them," said the veteran Yankee, for he is a native of Connecticut. "I have at home the ones I wore when I was much younger, and they still fit me. I use them sometimes for reading the newspapers."

Brigandage in Greece.

Brigandage is rampant at the present moment in Greece. This is accounted for by the disbandment of large bodies of volunteers, who, owing to the stagnation of trade and industry, have no employment or means of livelihood and have taken to highway robbery for the purpose of avoiding starvation. Most of them were permitted to retain their arms when dismissed from the service, and are now putting these weapons to private account.

—"Yez know Casey, the contractor?" said Mr. Dolan. "O' do," replied Rafferty. "Is he what yez call reliable?" "He is the most reliable man O' iver knew. Whinever he tells yez anythin' yez kin depend on it's not bein' so."—Washington Star.

—First Reformer.—"I'm trying to write an essay on the emancipation of my sex, and I find it very hard to begin." Second Reformer—"Oh, I think that would be so easy. Why, you might begin by sharpening your pencil with your husband's razor, you know."—Detroit Journal.

—Pleasures of the Imagination.—"Mrs. Stebbins is the meanest woman on earth." "What has she done now?" "She gave her little boy a slice of bread and butter and told him to go out and sit where he could smell the blackberry jam Mrs. Perkins was making."—Chicago Record.

A few months ago the aged father of a Reno Republican tumbled into a well, somewhere back East, and broke his neck or was drowned. A few days ago the Reno heir received $525, as his share of the old man's estate, and he is going around flourishing the greenbacks as evidence of the wave of prosperity which he predicted would sweep over the country upon the election of a Republican President.—Silver State.

THAT RELAY RACE

Carson Cyclists Suffer a Severe Attack of Klondike Feet.

Word was received yesterday from the Carson bicyclists by the members of the Reno Bicycle Club, that the Carsonites virtually refuse to ride a relay race with the Reno boys, stating that they are not in condition.

Why this collecting of sand in the necks of the Carson riders? About a year ago the Carson boys challenged Reno to a 50-mile relay race, the event to come off in about a week. Reno accepted the challenge and without a bit of training the boys went to Carson and run against a like number of men who had undergone diligent training for some time and were in first class condition. It is needless to state the result.

Several weeks ago Reno again received a challenge from Carson to run a relay of 80 miles, the route to take in the towns of Reno, Carson and Virginia, the riders to return to their several starting points. Reno refused this race, but in lieu thereof replied that they would run them a 50-mile relay on the Reno track, the same to take place on September 5th. Our boys fully expecting that the challenge would be accepted, have been training in a light way, getting into condition for good hard work, and the improvement shown by a number of them has been remarkable, some very fast runs having been made.

As our boys have had no desire to take advantage of the Carson boys in any way they have been riding openly and talked freely of the time they have been making and what improvement they expected to make between now and the date of the contest. Now, the Carsonites, after having issued two challenges, one of which was accepted by Reno and resulted in favor of Carson, decline to run against Reno giving the lame excuse that "They are not in condition," although they have had nearly a month in which to get in good trim. How much time do men who are issuing challenges generally require to get in condition? The true fact is they were unable after getting in good condition, to get an immediate race out of Reno, and realizing that they stood no chance with our men when they are in condition declined to run, thereby admitting that they are "quitters." Reno stands ready to meet Carson at any time under fair conditions. Reno does not ask them to ride for a purse, consequently they are unable to give the reply they did to Hawthorne, that "They do not want to be classed as professionals."

Carson's experience last fair week when they withdrew from the track upon seeing that they were outclassed, is still a forcible reminder that they are not in it with the Reno riders. The only deduction that can be made is that the Capital boys have got very, very cold feet.

THE GOLD CREEK MINES.

Extravagant Reports of Their Richness.

It is stated that an English syndicate is about to purchase the Gold Creek mines in Elko county for $15,000,000. It is to be hoped that the report is true, for it would imply that the mines are worth that amount, as English syndicates make such purchases with their eyes open. One of the promoters of the deal, W. B. Duval of Elko, is credited while in Denver, on his way East, as giving the most extravagant reports of the richness of those mines. He said:

"The Gold Creek region is the richest gold field in America, and events will show that the statement is not an exaggeration. Miners can easily make $40 a day, he declared, and he himself saw two miners last winter pick up $4,000 in gold in one day. Two others, according to mint receipts, he said, got $2,400 between December 3d and March 13th this winter, and one man between March 29th and May 24th found $1,027 50 in gold, according to mint assays. Mr. Davall claims for himself the discovery of the Gold Creek mines."

"He himself was burdened with gold nuggets this morning. From both trousers pockets he drew out handfuls of nuggets. Some of the pieces were $20 and $18 in value, he said. He showed also vials of gold dust more or less large. It sparkled bright. These nuggets, he said, came from Van Duzer Creek, and he believed that $40,000,000 of gold can be taken out after the erection of heavy and expensive machinery."

That this statement is highly colored there is no doubt, and that such statements will result injuriously to Nevada is likewise true. We have, beyond question, rich mines in Nevada, but to report that our mines are such that a man can pick up gold nuggets in the gulches of Gold Creek, as they say they do in the Klondike mines, will simply bring the State into disrepute abroad. The gold shipments from Gold Creek give the lie to all such reports and only make people suspicious of all who give them out as facts.

THE YANKEE TOURIST.

An Odd Traveler Blows Into Town on His Way Around the World.

He proposes to make the complete circuit in four years and hopes to get a concession to sell his book of adventures at the Paris Exposition in 1900.

Colburn, who is an ex-newspaper man, makes his living as he travels along. He says that he expected to have a hard time of it from Ogden to this point, but that part of his trip was pleasant.

A WESTERN INDUSTRY

It is Not Mentioned in the New Tarrif Law and is Not Protected.

Some forty years ago, says the Chicago News, a bright young man named Davis went west and laid the foundations of the Davis will case, which is now one of the most flourishing and important industries of the trans-Missouri region. At first, like all who depart from the beaten track, young Davis was laughed at by the thoughtless and shortsighted. But he was possessed of indomitable courage and of uncommon energy and year after year, despite the scoffs of the light-minded, tolling often in hunger and cold, he worked on and on, preparing the ground and sowing the cornerstones of the Davis will case.

In the fullness of time he died. Then it was seen that he had builded better than his neighbors knew. The little spouts and seedlets that he had planted sprung up into a mighty jungle. Here and there a sorrowing widow, here and there a batch of sons and daughters and first cousins and uncles appeared, and season by season, even as the wheat blossoms out in full head, a brand new regiment of lawyers came into the scene. The courts ground and ground. Decision followed decision, until from Butte, Montana, to the coast you could not go anywhere in the dark without running into a large ripe sheaf of judgments in the Davis will case. The magnitude of the growth may be gauged from the simple fact that the annual report of the Northern Pacific Road for 1895 shows that 14.67 of the entire freight revenue and 49.92 of the entire passenger revenue were derived from transporting law books and affidavits and decisions and lawyers and witnesses and plaintiffs and defendants connected with the Davis will case.

Then other and more tardy Davisees, comprehending that the original Davis had been on the right track, put their shoulder to the wheel. To-day every Western State offers a life pension to who so of the name of Davis will come there and put in the foundations for a Davis will case.

Kansas City Kitten That Fooled with Fly Paper.
A small, gray kitten in Kansas City walked back and forth in a store window the other day; conscious of her graceful appearance she lifted her feet daintily and curled her tail up over her back. Suddenly a noise in the store startled her, and she lowered her head and dropped her tail, as she turned, stealthily to investigate. This was a mistake. For the tail came in contact with a piece of sticky fly paper, and all the efforts she made to remove it but increased her discomfiture and humiliation. She shook her lithe body, and the tail was wagged vigorously, but the paper held her faster and tighter than it ever held a fly. She put her forepaw down; it stuck. Her little hind paw came to the rescue, and was held where it fell. Frantic and moving piteously, she rolled over and over, till unwrapped in a drapery of flypaper, she tumbled off the window platform and was gone. No one knew where or how, with but two feet free and those on corners diagonally opposite, she had managed to get out of sight and hearing. But she did it, and the flypaper went with her.

The Queen's Meisssonier.
In the Contemporary Review Mrs. Emily Crawford, writing her reminiscences of Queen Victoria, thus describes the purchase of one of the cleverest little canvases Meisssonier ever painted. The occasion of the buying of the picture was a visit to the Palais de l'Industrie in Paris. "Prince Albert singled out as worthy of admiration a horrid little painting that had every quality manipulation could give—'Le Rixie,' or 'The Brawl.' Ruffians were shown engaged in a deadly tussle. The technique was marvelous. Meisssonier up to that time a struggling artist, was the painter. The emperor bought the painting behind the queen's back for $1,000, and presented it next day to her husband as a birthday gift. The subject was inauspicious. It would have startled an old Roman in the prince's place." Certainly Prince Albert had good taste, and so had Louis Napoleon, as far as Meisssonier is concerned.

Canada Now a Serious Competitor in Africa.
Canadian and Italian asbestos will find a serious competitor in the blue asbestos recently discovered in the Cape Colony, since the South African product is less than half as heavy and furnishes fibers considerably finer and longer than any other, says the Detroit Tribune. The South African fiber has been worked into webs, which are but little inferior to those made of vegetable fiber, and are absolutely fireproof. Twine, cord and rope made of this blue asbestos will not only resist fire, but also most of the known chemicals, corrosive vapors and atmospheric influences. These qualities will open a new field for the employment of asbestos fabrics in chemical laboratories, and for the caulking of chemical apparatus. A novel application of this material is the working of blue asbestos fiber into mattresses for hospitals. They are cooler in summer and warmer in winter than those made either of animal hair or vegetable fiber, and no vermin can live in this mattress. Experiments are now being made of working this fiber into cloth for firemen's apparel. Of course the long fiber blue asbestos can also be employed for all the uses to which white asbestos has been put heretofore. While a trifle more expensive, its superior qualities make it well worth the difference.

Alfred Grissom, a Narrow Escape in Alabama.
Alfred Grissom, the manager of the summer excursion boats, has a cannon ball story which he says is Gospel truth. People in the excursion business have a strict regard for veracity, and many of his friends believe every word of it, says the St. Louis Republic. Several years ago, the story runs, Mr. Grissom was in St. James parish, La. He had occasion to visit a sawmill where the big cottonwood logs were being cut into lumber. His attention was attracted to a particularly large log, when suddenly there was a loud crash, like that of the teeth striking a nail. Windows were broken, men shouted and the machinery was stopped. Mr. Grissom was not hurt as he had imagined. Something had happened and he stopped to see the cause. The big log was removed from the rack and split open. A large cannon ball was imbedded in the center. The saw had struck it and broke into a myriad of pieces which flew in all directions. Five pieces passed through his hat, one struck his watch and glanced off, another hit a silver dollar in his vest pocket and left a scratch along its surface. Luckily, none of the flying particles struck his body or did other injury than break a few panes of glass in the office compartment.
